

announced by local proclamation or order, and will be given the widest publicity by all available media.

(b) Persons not normally subject to military law, who are taken into custody by military forces incident to civil disturbances, will be turned over to the civil authorities as soon as possible.

(c) Military forces will ordinarily exercise police powers previously inoperative in an affected area; restore and maintain order; maintain essential transportation and communication; and provide necessary relief measures.

(d) U.S. Air Force civilian employees may be used, in any assignments in which they are capable and willing to serve. In planning for on-base contingencies of fires, floods, hurricanes, and other natural disasters, arrangements should be made for the identification and voluntary use of individual employees to the extent that the needs for their services are anticipated.

Subpart C—Special Considerations for Overseas Areas

§ 809a.9 General.

The use of Air Force personnel in overseas areas poses unique problems inasmuch as their use is governed by national laws of the country concerned and by the terms of international pact or bilateral agreements to which the United States is signatory.

[37 FR 18729, Sept. 15, 1972]

§ 809a.10 Requirements for supplements.

The implementation of policies relating to overseas areas must conform to the pertinent terms of the status of forces agreement under which a U.S. Force may be stationed in the foreign host country concerned. Accordingly, major commands must prepare individual supplements to this part for each country in which they have units stationed. These supplements shall contain specific policy and guidance on the use of Air Force personnel. It is essential that each commander clearly understands the status of his installation or base, including that of all sub bases, annexes, housing areas, etc.
